| 1) Rear-end collisions can be avoided by loudly blowing your horn as you approach a slower moving vehicle.  | <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 2) Every traffic situation will present a completely different set of factors that will greatly affect the distance required to bring your vehicle to a stop.   | <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 3) Distractions are part of our job and rear-end collisions and the injuries that result are just "a part of doing business".                                   | <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 4) Road surface (ice, water, gravel, etc.) can greatly affect the distance required to slow or stop your vehicle.   | <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 5) By learning from your near miss experiences, you can change your driving behaviors and greatly reduce your chances of being injured in a rear-end collision. | <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> |
